BLEW HIS BRAINS OUT.

Colonel Canaday, Ex-Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate, Takes His Own Life.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Col. W. P. Canaday, ex-sergeant-at-arms of the United States senate, committed suicide this morning by blowing out his brains in his room, No. 712 Tenth street, N. W. Since his retirement from the senate Colonel Canaday has been engaged in a general brokerage business in partnership with J. Q. A. Houghton, who furnished the financial resources of the firm. Mr. Houghton said he was awakened early this morning by a colored boy, who brought him a message that Colonel Canaday desired to see him at the office. Since his connection with Canaday and the business Mr. Houghton said he had never less than $17,000 in the concern, $2,000 of which he had placed in the safe only last night. His suspicions were aroused that the message had something to do with that money, and when he arrived at the office he found he was not mistaken. Colonel Canaday stated to him that he was awakened by three colored men, between 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning, who, with revolvers at his head, compelled him to open the safe. The burglars, Colonel Canaday said, had obtained entrance by breaking the window pane with a railroad spike. After securing the money the robbers gagged the colonel, using for the purpose his night robe. They then bound him to the door of the office, after tying his hands and feet. This was the story told to Mr. Houghton, who promptly declared his disbelief of the tale, and left after warning Colonel Canaday that he intended to procure a warrant for his arrest.

The story as told by Mr. Stevenson, whose apartments in the house are above Canaday's office, is that some time before 4 o'clock this morning he was awakened by a tapping sound and immediately after he heard a voice asking him to come down stairs. This was repeated several times. Mr. Stevenson hurried down to the room below and found Colonel Canaday bound to a closet door in the room. In an excited tone he asked to be cut loose. This being done Colonel Canaday was asked the cause of his unusual position. He replied: "Robbers; look on the floor." Mr. Stevenson glanced down and saw a number of charred papers. Colonel Canaday told him that robbers had overpowered him and burglarized his effects. The police were summoned, to whom Colonel Canaday related the same story. An examiantion of the premises showed that the window through which the burglars obtained entrance, as claimed by Colonel Canaday, had been smashed into fragments. The things used to hold Colonel Canaday to the door were pieces of binding twine, tied loosely about his knees, ankles, wrists and elbows. The gag was poorly arranged in his mouth and he had no difficulty in raising his voice so that he could be heard by the boarders on the story above. Colonel Canaday, after giving his version of the story to the police, retired to his private room in the office and dressed himself then sent the message to his partner, Mr. Houghton. After the scene between them he returned to the office, and about 7:30 o'clock he was found by the police, who had come to serve the warrant sworn out by Mr. Houghton, stretched on a cot in the corner of the room with a bullet hole in his head. The bedding about the colonel was in a pool of blood, the bullet had passed clear through his head and was embedded in the wall. A note was found written by Colonel Canaday to his partner, Mr. Houghton, saying: "After your conduct this morning I have no further use for life."

Another note was found by his side said to have been addressed to a lady, which the police have and will not make public until the inquest. It is said the charred papers found on the floor of the office represent notes, bonds, stocks and other commercial paper of value of $100,000. Colonel Canaday has been separated several years from his wife, who with her only son, a young boy, lives at Wilmington, N. C., and rumor connects his name with that of a young woman who has been in his employ. The police are looking for her, in the belief that she may be able to tell something of the whereabouts of the $2,000 that disappeared last night. Colonel Canaday had been in financial trouble for some time. They were the cause of his retirement from the office of sergeant-at-arms of the senate. Colonel Canaday was a native of North Carolina and after the war took a prominent part in politics. For a number of years he was a member of the senate.

THE BIG FOUR SUED.

James Story Wants $10,000 for the Loss of an Arm.

WABASH, Sept. 27.—James Story entered suit in the Wabash circuit court this morning against the Cincinnati, Wabash and Michigan railroad for $10,000. A little over a year ago he was a switchman in the yard, and while coupling cars had his arm crushed so that it had to be amputated. Story claims that the couplers on the cars were defective, hence the suit.

RATHER STARTLING.

The Bohemia Furnishes Three Cholera Patients.

QUARANTINE, S. I., Sept. 27.—The following is from Dr. Byron at 9:10 this morning: Daily census—Transferred to convalescent ward, thirty-nine; admitted from ship Bohemia, two; died in hospital, one; sick patients convalescent and suspects, three. The names of those admitted, Mariana Lukwosko, 7 years, Stanisluis Michesarich, 8 years. The latter died two and one-half hours after admission, September 27, at 10 a. m. These two cases developed on the Bohemia about dusk and were transferred to Swinburne island about 11 o'clock last night. There is strong grounds for fear that the usual examination will prove the case of the eight-year-old girl to have been cholera. At 12 o'clock Dr. Jenkins received a dispatch from Dr. Byron, saying he had just transferred three more cases from the Bohemia. They were Wm. Latz, aged four; Johana Milksearic, aged six, and Karl Grasse, aged twenty-four. The only additional fact in the statement is that the symptoms were very serious.

ONLY A PRETENCE.

Was Russia's Seizure of American Sealing Vessels.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 27.—It is reported that the captain of one of the British Columbia's sealing vessels seized by Russia in Behring sea is here for the purpose of furnishing the government with affidavits of his seizure and information as to others, and that he states that he understood the Russian language and while a prisoner on board the Russian gun boat learned from the conversation and actions of the Russian officers that they were instructed to make only a pretence of seizing American vessels, the real object being to assert such rights in Behring Sea as would materially assist the United States in the approaching arbitration. Be this as it may, cablegrams regarding these seizures are passing daily between the British and Canadian governments.

A POLITICAL EVENT.

The Democratic Society of New Jersey in Convention.

CAMDEN, N. J., Sept. 27.—The Democratic Society of New Jersey met in annual convention in the Seventh Regiment armory this morning. Ten clubs being represented.

The platform heartily endorses the platform of the democratic party adopted at the national and state conventions and the policy so ably enunciated in the letter of acceptance of Grover Cleveland and urges the immediate formation of democratic associations throughout the state to co-operate in the work of the society.

THE READING.

The State Senate Committee at Work on the Case.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The state senate committee to investigate the Reading coal combine, held a meeting this morning at the Murray Hill hotel. The committee adopted the recommendation of its counsel and ordered the transmission of the counsel's opinion to the attorney general of the state and advised that immediate action be taken to invalidate the leases and sub-lease of the Lehigh Valley Railroad company to the Reading company.

CANADA'S EXHIBIT.

The Dominion Will be Well Represented at the World's Fair.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 27.—The statement that a probability exists of the Canadian exhibit at the world's fair in Chicago not being first-class, is, according to Professor Saunders, the dominion commissioner, groundless.

In fact, he says, already over 10,000 feet of space has been applied for, more than has been allotted by the world's fair directors to Canada. The total amount of space granted to the dominion is about 100,000 feet.

THIEVING CLERKS.

The Postal Inspectors Succeed in Discovering a Systematic Robbery Scheme.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27.—After nine months hard work General Edgerton, head of the postal inspectors of this district, and his subordinates have succeeded in running down a set of conspirators who have been systematically plundering Philadelphia merchants of thousands of dollars worth of valuable goods. The full extent of their operations or the number engaged in the thieving are not yet known, but four men were arrested late last night and the postal inspectors of the United States and deputy marshals are out today after those who have received the stolen goods and other members of the gang. The men under arrest are all van drivers and are John Hooper, James Hirst, Charles Schach and John J. Dicker. Their system of stealing was simple, but effective. All mail pouches are placed in the mail wagons to be carried to the depots. The way mail is placed in what are called the "tie sacks," fastened with a string. At the depot the drivers would back up their wagons, get inside and leisurly ransack the bags. Small and valuable packages would then be abstracted. Afterward the spoils would be disposed of to a "fence."

SENATOR INGALLS.

He Speaks of the Political Outlook in a Characteristic Manner.

ATCHISON, Kas., Sept. 27.—Ex-Senator Ingalls has just returned from Europe. Speaking of the political outlook in Kansas and the talk of fusion, he said: "It is a singular situation, that upon which we have come. Politics is a battle. On the field we use bullets, in the campaign ballots. It is give and take, Sullivan and Corbett. The conflict must be waged unrelentingly. Talk about concessions, alliances, rosewater incense. Do the democrats do it? Every orator on the democratic stump calls the republican party a party of robbers, a party of monopoly, a party of traitors to the constitution and if a republican twists the knives between their ribs they squeal and beg. I sometimes wonder what became of the democrats of two years ago. I wonder what became of the 80,000 majority which we gave to Harrison. In the cataclasm which followed, in which every republican seemed to be elected, myself included, for I went out of sight, surpassing the cow which jumped over the moon, there was a complete change and the democratic party, in part, was lost to view. What a change in two years. I am for winning back the sheep which strayed from the fold. The old soldiers who were induced to go away, must be found and taken by the hand and led back. Let there be an awakening. I have not been back long enough to find out what is going on. I do not pretend to speak advisedly and my views as I have expressed them to you are subject to a modification as the situation may have changed. I would prefer not to be quoted until that time."

WILL MOVE TO ALBANY.

Senator Hill Decides to Leave New York Soon.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—A special from Albany says that within a few months, probably at the close of the campaign, Senator Hill will remove his law practice to Albany and confine it to cases in the court of appeals and general term. All the time when not engaged in senatorial duties, has been devoted to his legal business. At present he is supervising the alterations and improvements of his new residence, the "Emmett Villa," and will probably be in full possession within a month.

Two Old People Perish in Trying to Save Household Goods.

HOWARD, S. D., Sept. 27.—A fire, supposed to have been started by children, yesterday afternoon swept over the whole eastern side of the business street, causing a loss estimated at $100,000; insurance, $30,000. R. B. Allen's mother and father, an old couple, lost their lives saving household goods.

DEFAULTER ARRESTED.

The Speculations of a Cotton Gambler End Abruptly.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 27.—W. R. Crossett, of Hope, Ark., whence he is a fugitive from justice, was arrested last night in a broker's office and jailed. He defaulted with $21,000 of the Hope school district funds, of which he was treasurer, and had also taken considerable money belonging to the People's bank, of which he was cashier. Most of the money has been recovered. Crossett attributes his downfall to cotton future speculations. When arrested he was conducting a transaction in cotton futures.

EMIGRANTS IN LONDON.

The Refusal of the Cunard People to Ship Them to America Leaves Them in a Bad Way.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The Cunard Steamship line having grown tired of maintaining the emigrants from Hamburg who had bought tickets by way of the line at boarding houses in Liverpool, and seeing no early prospect of being able to dispose of them by transportation to America, offered to return to the emigrants the amount of their fares. The majority of the emigrants refused to accept the offer and insisted on being conveyed to the United States. The company then notified the keepers of the boarding houses in which the emigrants had been maintained that the company would no longer be responsible for their support. Thereupon the landlords turned the emigrants out of doors. The emigrants applied to the authorities, but the latter declined to admit the strangers to the work houses, as the poor houses in England are called, and the unfortunate foreigners wandered about the streets, the police, for sanitary reasons, not wishing to arrest them and not willing to have anything to do with them.

FATALLY INJURED.

Bloody Fight Between Old-Time Enemies Near Crawfordsville.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Sept. 27.—A feud of several months' standing has culminated in a bloody fight, and James Allen will probably loose his life. The Allen and Gilkey families live on adjoining farms, and have been at outs. Allen accused Gilkey's son of using unbecoming language about him (Allen), and, confronting the boy, the lad admitted it. Allen struck him with a heavy cane, but the boy drew a large knife, and slashing at Allen, literally split his arm open to the elbow, causing a terrible hemorrhage, which could not be entirely checked. There were also a number of hideous cuts about the face and breast, and it is thought he will die. Both families are highly respected in the neighborhood, and among the wealthiest of the county.

A BAD COUPLE.

They are Charged With Stealing a Dead Man's Jewelry.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Mrs. Henry Marsh and James McIntosh, who are said to be from Pittsburg, were arrested yesterday on a charge of grand larceny preferred by Harry Fehl, who says he is the administrator of Gamble Wier, of Pittsburg, who died in January. He alleges that Mrs. Marsh and McIntosh disappeared with several thousand dollars worth of personal property, jewelry and diamonds which belonged to Wier. The police made a thorough search of their house at No. 100 Beach street, Stapleton, and it is believed that some of the missing jewels were recovered. It is also intimated that the prisoners know something of the death of Mr. Wier, which was caused by poison.

CONVICTS ESCAPE.

They Attack and Disarm the Prison Guards.

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 27.—At a convict camp, six miles west of here, yesterday, "Commodore" Miller and twelve other prisoners disarmed the guards and escaped, taking with them the guns of the guards. An alarm was given and a detachment of deputy sheriffs and police started in pursuit of the fugitives. Last night a hundred armed and mounted men were pursuing the convicts, but up to a late hour none of them had been recaptured.

THE DEAD MUSICIAN.

His Remains Arrive in New York and Are Met by a Large Body of Musicians.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The body of Patrick Sarsfield Gilmore arrived at the Grand Central depot this morning. On the funeral train accompanying the body were Mrs. P. S. Gilmore and her daughter, Minnie; a committee of three of the Gilmore band, Lawrence O'Reilly, Wm. Schultz and Howard Schultz, and a committee of directors of the Musical Protective association, who met the train at Poughkeepsie this morning. Long before the train was due crowds of friends and musicians of the dead leader had gathered at the depot. At 3 o'clock the train arrived. The musicians had formed in two long lines from the train to the waiting carriages without. Behind these lines crowding every corner of the spacious depot and the street were thousands of people who stood with uncovered heads from the moment of the train's arrival. After Mrs. Gilmore and her daughter had passed to their carriage the coffin containing the remains of the famous band master was taken from the car and carried to the hearse waiting without. As the head of the funeral train reached the entrance to the depot the soft and solemn notes of the "Lost Chord" filled the vast enclosure and the music continued until the funeral procession moved away. The remains were driven directly to the late home of the deceased, where they will remain until the funeral. Secretary Hunt, of the Musical union, said that Mrs. Gilmore had consented to a military funeral to take place tomorrow.

PECK ON TRIAL.

His Testimony Occupies the Entire Day's Session.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 27.—When the special term of the supreme court opened this morning there was a large attendance of lawyers and politicians to hear the argument in the case against Charles F. Peck as labor commissioner of the state. It was supposed that Judge Fursman, of Troy, would hold the term, but Justice Mayham, who wrote the appointment decision the other day, was upon the bench when the court opened. It was said that an arrangement had been entered into whereby Justice Fursman need not sit. Mr. Peck strolled into court about half an hour after it opened and sat down and chatted with several republican leaders who were present.

The case, as called, was entitled: "In the matter of application of E. Ellery Anderson for a writ of peremptorly mandaus to compel the production of certain papers." Mr. Norton Chase, of Albion, appeared for Mr. Anderson, and Mr. Edward Megan, of Albany, for Mr. Peck. After a lot of business had been concluded the case was called. In the meantime Mr. Peck had prepared the following affidavit: "Supreme court, Albany county. The people ex rel Ellery Anderson against Chas. F. Peck, commissioner of statistics of labor. City and county of Albany."

Mr. Peck was called to the witness stand and his testimony, interrupted as it was by cross-questions, occupied the morning session of the court.

Mr. Chase read the title and affidavits as presented, and after stating the case Judge Mayham said: "It seems to me that, as Justice Edwards granted the original order, and as there seems to be an odor in the air of great interests involved, I think we had better hear it." Mr. Chase.—We were sent to Kingston to Judge Fursman and I believe that the case should be heard by him. Mr. Megan.—There is no reason why the case should not be heard by Judge Edwards. After some argument Judge Mayham said: "I will send it to Judge Edwards' special term at Hudson the second Saturday in October." Mr. Chase wanted it heard before Judge Fursman, at Troy, on Saturday, but Judge Mayham would not change his order. Mr. Megan said: "We are pleased and will now get a fair hearing."

FREE MAIL DELIVERY

Will be Established at Peru and Michigan City.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—At the postoffice department it was stated that the postal receipts for Indiana postoffices during the present year would show probably the greatest increase of any state in the union in proportion to population. The effect of the increase is shown in a proclamation just issued to establish free mail delivery at Peru, Michigan City and Shelbyville, on Dec. 1 next. The cities named must comply with the regulations in regard to posting the names of streets at the intersections thereof or as to numbering houses, etc., by or before the 30th of November, or the establishment of the free service at the offices named will be postponed.

A FORGER CAUGHT.

Passes a Forged Check on Friends' Enterprise but is Afterwards Arrested—Court News.

Among the four prisoners in police court this morning was a stranger, who gave his name as Cash B. Harrison, and said he came from Nashville, Tenn.

He was charged with having passed a forged check of $50 on the First National bank, signed by the Jenney Electric Light company, and made payable to the order of Jerry A. Dowd, at the Friend's Enterprise clothing store.

He had arrived in the city Sunday night, dressed in a gray suit and wearing a silk hat and took rooms at the Wayne hotel.

Last night about 8 o'clock he walked into the Friend's Enterprise and asked to be shown a suit of clothes, which was done. He finally decided to take a $15 suit, but first asked them if they would cash a check in payment for the suit. Mr. Friend consented and was presented with a check on the First National bank which read as follows:

Pay to Jerry A. Dowd fifty dollars.
JENNY ELECTRIC COMPANY.

The stranger said he was an employe of the electric works and had received that check after quitting last evening.

Mr. Friend cashed the check and returned to the stranger $35 in cash and he left with his purchase, going to the hotel, where he donned his new suit and put on a Derby hat.

Shortly after leaving the store Mr. Friend became suspicious that all was not right, and meeting Mr. Guild and showing him the check was informed that it was probably a forgery.

Mr. Friend at once notified the officers and Officer Bourgmann found the man at the Bank saloon, where he was arrested after a desperate struggle, claiming to be a United States marshal.

The fellow was handcuffed and taken to the police station, where he was searched. He carried a gold watch and a number of letters, besides a bundle of blank checks on the Bank of Commerce, Norfolk, Va., also $22.17 in money and a watch charm in the shape of a mandolin.

Among the letters was one on letterhead paper from the Griswold house, Detroit, which read:

"J. F. Dowd, Marquette, Mich.:
"DEAR SIR:—Inclosed please find check for $60, in full for account against me. Please receipt for same and send it to me at Nashville, Tenn.
"Very respectfully,
"C. B. HARRISON."

He also had letters addressed to A. J. Goterman, Marquette, Mich., which were from the Block Billiard Table company, Cleveland, O.

He had letterheads as follows: "A. J. Otterman, agent Crescent Transportation company, Marquette, Mich."

In an interview after his arrest he said his name was C. B. Harrison, that he was thirty-eight years of age and lived in Nashville, Tenn., the home of his parents. He said his father's name was also C. B. Harrison and that his father was a United States marshal while he was deputy United States marshal.

When his case was called in police court this morning and Prosecutor Emerick confronted him with the charge he pleaded "not guilty." The Friend brothers and Officer Bourgman were sworn, testifying substantially as above. The prisoner was asked by the mayor what he had to say. "Nothing," was the reply and he was bound over to court in the sum of $1,000.

Before leaving the police station THE SENTINEL reporter interviewed the forger but he refused to talk about the crime with which he is charged. "I don't want to say anything to you newspaper men," he said. "You have reported me wrong in the morning papers, not even giving a correct description of myself. No, I have nothing to say for publication."

The fellow now occupies a cell at the county jail. There is a clear case against him, and he will go to the penitentiary.

The other prisoners who had a hearing before the mayor were: William Thompson, drunk, arrested by Officer McCrory; Geo. Clark, vagrancy, arrested by Officer Richter, and Jacob Bristol, drunk, arrested by Officer Richter. They were all sent to jail.

Samuel J. Robecker, by his attorney, B. F. Harper, has filed a complaint in the circuit court for divorce, against his wife, Mattie. The complaint shows that they were married in December, 1891, and separated July, 1892, and that for a long time prior to separation she would scold incessantly, and at every meal time would throw dishes, knives, forks and victuals at him.

COLUMBUS DAY.

The General Committee Arranges a Portion of the Program—A Grand Parade Promised.

The committee appointed to arrange for an appropriate celebration of Columbus Day met last evening in the circuit court room. Hon. J. B. White, who presided, called the meeting to order and stated its object. He made a very patriotic speech, giving his idea of the nature and extent of the coming celebration, and his remarks were enthusiastically approved by the audience. The call for the meeting and the names of the executive committee were then read. Hon. J. D. Sarnighausen asked to be released from committee duty. His request was granted and A. L. Griebel was selected as his successor. The following additions were made to the regular executive committee: R. E. White, representing the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen; Henry J. Lapp, of the Carpenters' union; Henry Heine, of the German Land Wehr Verin, and William Schieferdecker.

At the suggestion of A. S. Lauferty, it was decided to make the part taken by the school children one of the most important features of the celebration. The speaker suggested that the public and parochial schools be asked to provide appropriate floats and that they be given a prominent position in the parade. After a little discussion the floats were apportioned in the following order:

CATHOLIC SCHOOLS.

"Columbus Before the Court of Ferdinand and Isabella."

"Columbus Leaving the Harbor of Genoa on His Tour of Discovery."

"Landing of Columbus at San Salvador."

LUTHERAN SCHOOLS.

"William Penn's Treaty With the Indians."

"Washington Crossing the Delaware."

"The Surrender of Cornwallis."

HEBREW SUNDAY SCHOOL.

"Liberty Enlightening the World."

The scholars have already expressed their willingness to prepare this float and they will be assisted by Messrs. and Mesdames M. Frank, M. Lamley, A. S. Lauferty and Charles Falk.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

"Signing the Declaration of Independence."

"America."

"The Star Spangled Banner."

FEEBLE MINDED INSTITUTE.

WASN'T KILLED.

A Brazil Tough Who Was Supposed to Be Dead Comes Back.

BRAZIL, Sept. 27.—Thomas Creighton entered Haverly's saloon with a large revolver in each hand some time ago. He ordered everyone to throw up their hands, at the same time discharging both weapons into the crowd. Haverly and Tom Cassidy began firing at Creighton. Cassidy's hat was shot from his head and he received a slight flesh wound. Suddenly Creighton shrieked an fell out of the back door. It was thought that he was fatally injured. The police searched for Creighton, but only a pool of blood was found. He was spirited away by his friends, and it is thought that he was sent to Chicago. This morning he returned to this city and was arrested and locked up.

The Steamer Alaska.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The Guion line steamer Alaska arrived off Queenstown at 2:30 this morning. Rough weather prevented the Alaska from touching at Queenstown.

The city council will meet tonight.

TOO MUCH MORPHINE.

A Guest of the Rich Found Nearly Dead From Its Use—A Nurse Nearly Poisons a Patient.

George L. Thomas, a travelling man, arrived in the city Saturday morning and registered at the Rich. In the evening he acted queerly and some of the inmates of the hotel kept a close watch on his movements. About 10 o'clock, after Thomas had retired, a friend who knew that Thomas was a confirmed user or morphine, went up to the latter's room to see how he was. On opening the door he found the light burning and Thomas stretched out on the bed with the glassy stare of death in his eyes, apparently lifeless. Help was immediately summoned and Dr. J. E. Miller sent for. It looked like a hopeless case, but after working with him until 4 o'clock the next morning, the doctor finally restored the man to consciousness, and on being questioned he said he took an overdose of morphine. He recovered enough to be able to walk about in the afternoon, and procuring some more of the drug, took another dose, which rendered him almost as bad as the first. When sufficiently recovered he was put on board a train and sent to his home at Warsaw.

A CARELESS NURSE.

Mrs. Jacob Smidt, of 129 Tabor street, had a very narrow escape from a terrible death by poison yesterday. Mrs. Smidt, who is ill from a fever, was left two kinds of medicine by her physician, one to be taken inwardly, and the other was pure carbolic acid to be diluted when used. By mistake, the nurse, instead of giving Mrs. Smidt a dose of the fever medicine gave her a tablespoonful of the carbolic acid. The moment it touched the sick woman's mouth she felt the characteristic burn of the fluid and spit it out, at the same time asking the nurse what she had given her. The woman looked at the label on the bottle and replied, "Carbolic acid." Dr. L. T. Sturgis was immediately sent for, as some of the liquid had gotten down the woman's throat, and burned her badly. An antidote was at once administered, and she was gotten past danger, although suffering terribly. Mrs. Smidt's promptness in spitting out the medicine was all that saved her life.

WILL NOT GO.

The Hendricks Club Will Not Visit Kendallville.

Owing to an unexpected change in the program for the democratic celebration at Kendallville tomorrow evening, the Hendricks club have decided to postpone going to that city until some future date.

President Shambaugh this morning received a telegram from the committee, saying that owing to the fact that the principal speakers who were expected to address the meeting would be unable to be present and that the evening celebration would necessarily have to be postponed.

This announcement will be read with regret by the large number of people who would have attended, the club having chartered a special train for the occasion.

DR. JEKYLL AND MR. HYDE.

Not Only a Moral but a Physical Existence in Our Bodies.

The morally good or bad within us has been ably set forth in the story of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, but did it ever occur to you that there was a physical application of this remarkable story, more real and terrible than the contrasts of moral attributes?

The moral perfection of Dr. Jekyll is represented in our physical systems by sound, strong and vigorous health—the skulking, murderous immorality of Mr. Hyde has its prototype in the weakness or disease of our vital organs, which often exist within us, and which may at any moment rise, overcome our strong health and hold us in its deadly grasp.

How many dangers there are which thus grapple us before we are aware of our peril! We often neglect a little weakness or exhaustion, nervousness, tired brain, sleepless nights from which we wake tired and unrefreshed, weary, languid feeling, headache, confusion of mind, dullness, loss of memory, strange sensations—which mean insanity, cold feet and limbs, numbness, trembling, prickling sensation, extreme weariness of limbs—mean paralysis. Poor blood, low vitality, pale complexion and great weakness—mean consumption. We often disregard the weakness of nervous debility, malaria, the disorder of stomach, liver or kidneys, until fatal disease fastens upon us.

You neglect these symptoms at your peril, for they may run into incurable disease.

You should use immediately that wonderful remedy, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, the pure vegetable medicine, which restores vigor to the tired brain, strength to the weak and shattered nerves, vitality and health to the exhausted body, and thus prevent fatal results. Druggists, $1.00.

"I had poor health for several years. Have been under the treatment of many doctors, but they did me no good. The more medicine I took, the weaker I grew; was so bad at last I could not eat or sleep, and had a cough that almost racked me to pieces. I had pains in my chest which made breathing very difficult. As my father, brother and sister had died with consumption, I thought my time had come. With much pleasure and gratitude I can now say that I have been entirely cured of my troubles by Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. My appetite is excellent, food digests easily, sleep is refreshing, and altogether I feel restored to health once more. I most earnestly recommend Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy to all who are afflicted with obstinate chronic, nervous or painful diseases. I have recommended it to many sufferers, and am pleased to say that it has given general satisfaction.

THE letter of Grover Cleveland accepting the democratic nomination for president is a magnificent discussion of the political issues now before the American people. The letter fits into the platform adopted at Chicago and, as a sound interpretation of the democratic position, will be accepted by democrats everywhere.

HON. A. E. STEVENSON'S campaigning tour through North Carolina and Virginia has undoubtedly been productive of good results. The crowds that have turned out to greet him have been unequaled in numbers and enthusiasm by any similar demonstrations since the visit of Henry Clay to the old North state fifty years ago. He has made the people realize, too, that the force bill is a living issue, and one of vital interest to them. The third party will not poll so large a vote in North Carolina as it would have done had Mr. Stevenson not gone into that state. His powerful appeals to the people to remain true to their allegiance to the democracy have not been without effect. Mr. Stevenson is the candidate of the democratic party for vice-president. He is now in Tennessee.

Cleveland's Letter.

The following is the letter of Grover Cleveland, accepting the nomination as the democratic candidate for president of the United States:

To Hon. William L. Wilson and others, committee, etc.:

GENTLEMEN:—In responding to your formal notification of my nomination to the presidency by the national democracy, I hope I may be permitted to say at the outset that continued reflection and observation have confirmed me in my adherence to the opinions which I have heretofore plainly and publicly declared touching the questions involved in the canvass. This is a time, above all others, when these questions should be considered in the light afforded by a sober apprehension of the principles upon which our government is based, and a clear understanding of the relation it bears to the people for whose benefit it was created. We shall thus be supplied with a test by which the value of any proposition relating to the maintenance and administration of our government can be ascertained, and by which the justice and honesty of every political question can be judged. If doctrines or theories are presented which do not satisfy this test, loyal Americanism must pronounce them false and mischievous. The protection of the people in the exclusive use and enjoyment of their property and earnings concededly constitutes the especial purpose and mission of our free government. This design is so interwoven with the structure of our plan of rule that failure to protect the citizens in such enjoyment or their unjustifiable diminution by the government itself is a betrayal of the people's trust. We have, however, undertaken to build a great nation upon a plan especially our own. To maintain it and furnish through its agency the means for the accomplishment of national objects, the American people are willing through federal taxation to surrender a part of their earnings and income.

Tariff legislation presents a familiar form of federal taxation. Such legislation results as surely in a tax upon the daily life of our people as the tribute paid directly to the hands of the tax gatherer. We feel the burden of these tariff taxes too palpably to be persuaded by any sophistry that they do not exist, or are paid by foreigners. Such taxes, representing a diminution of the property rights of the people, are only justifiable when laid and collected for the purpose of maintaining our government and furnishing the means for the accomplishment of its legitimate purposes and functions. This is taxation under the operation of a tariff for revenue. It accords with the professions of American free institutions, and its justice and honesty answer the test supplied by a correct appreciation of the principles upon which these institutions rest. This theory of tariff legislation manifestly enjoins strict economy in public expenditures and their limitation to legitimate public uses, inasmuch as it exhibits as absolute extortion any exaction by way of taxation from the substance of the people beyond the necessities of a careful and proper administration of government. Opposed to this theory the dogma is now boldly presented that tariff taxation is justifiable for the express purpose of promoting special interests and enterprises. Such a proposition is so clearly contrary to the spirit of our constitution and so directly encourages the disturbance, by selfishness and greed, of patriotic sentiment that its statement would rudely shock our people if they had not already been insidiously allured from the same landmarks of principle. Never have honest desire for national growth, patriotic devotion to country and sincere regard for those who toil, been so betrayed to the support of a pernicious doctrine. In its behalf the plea that our infant industries should be fostered did service until discredited by our stalwart growth; then followed the exigencies of a terrible war, which made our people heedless of the opportunities for ulterior schemes afforded by their willing and patriotic payment of unprecedented tribute, and now after a long period of peace, when our over-burdened countrymen ask for relief and a restoration to a fuller enjoyment of their incomes and earnings, they are met by the claim that tariff taxation for the sake of protection is an American system, the continuance of which is necessary in order that high wages may be paid to our working men and a home market provided for our farm products. These pretence should no longer deceive. The truth is that such a system is directly antagonized by every sentiment of justice and fairness of which the Americans are pre-eminently proud. It is also true that while our workingmen and farmers can, the least of all our people, defend themselves against the harder home life which such tariff taxation decrees, the workingman, suffering from the importation and employment of pauper labor instigated by his professed friends, and seeking security for his interests in organized co-operation still waits for a division of the advantages secured to his employer under cover of a generous solicitude for his wages, while the farmer is learning that the prices of his products are fixed in foreign markets where he suffers from a competition invited and built up by the system he is asked to support. The struggle of unearned advantage at the doors of the government tramples on the rights of those who patiently rely upon assurances of American equality. Every government concession to clamorous favorites invites corruption in political affairs by encouraging the expenditure of money to debauch suffrage in support of a policy directly favorable to private and selfish gain. This, in the end, must strangle patriotism and weaken popular confidence in the rectitude of republican institutions. Though the subject of tariff legislation involves a question of markets it also involves a question of morals. We cannot, with impunity, permit injustice to taint the spirit of right and equity, which is the national destiny if greed and selfishness lead the way. Recognizing these truths the national democracy will seek, by the application of just and sound principles, to equalize to our people the blessings due them from the government they support; to promote among our countrymen a closer community of interests by patriotism and national pride, and to point out a fairfield where the prosperous and diversified enterprises may grow and live in the wholesome atmosphere of American industry and ingenuity. Tariff reform is still our purpose. Though we oppose the theory that tariff laws may be passed, having for their object the granting of discriminating and unfair governmental aid to private ventures, we wage no exterminating war against any American interests. We believe a readjustment can be accomplished in accordance with the principles we profess without disaster or demolition. We believe that the advantages of free raw material should be accorded to our manufacturers, and we contemplate a fair and equal distribution of necessary tariff burdens rather than the precipitation of free trade. We anticipate with calmness the misrepresentation of our motives and purpose instigated by a selfishness which seeks to hold in unrelenting grasp its unfair advantage under present tariff laws. We will rely upon the intelligence of our fellow countrymen to reject the charge that a party comprising a majority of our people is planning the destruction or injury of American interests, and we know that they cannot be frightened by the spectre of impossible free trade.

The administration and management of our government depends upon popular will. Federal power is the instrument of that will—not its master. Therefore the attempt of the opponents of democracy to interfere with and control the suffrage of the states, through federal agencies, develops a design, which no explanation can mitigate, to reverse the fundamental and safe relations between the people and their government. Such an attempt cannot fail to be regarded by thoughtful men as proof of a bold determination to secure the ascendency of a discredited party in reckless disregard of a free expression of the popular will. To resist such a scheme is an impulse of democracy. At all times and in all places we trust the people. As against the disposition to force the way to federal power we present to them as our claim to their confidence and support a steady championship of their rights.

The people are entitled to sound and honest money, abundantly sufficient in volume to supply their business needs. But whatever may be the form of the people's currency, national or state—whether gold, silver or paper—it should be so regulated and guarded by governmental action, or by wise and careful laws, that none can be deluded as to the certainty and stability of its value. Every dollar put into the hands of the people should be of the same intrinsic value or purchasing power. With this condition absolutely guaranteed, both gold and silver can be safely utilized upon equal terms in the adjustment of our currency. In dealing with this subject no selfish scheme should be allowed to intervene and no doubtful experiment should be attempted. The wants of our people arising out of the deficiency of imperfect distribution of money circulation ought to be fully and honestly recognized and efficiently remedied. It should, however, be constantly remembered that the inconvenience or loss that might arise from such a situation can be much easier borne than the universal distress which much must follow a discredited currency.

Public officials are the agents of the people. It is therefore their duty to secure for those whom they represent the best and most efficient performance of public work. This plainly can be best accomplished by regarding ascertained fitness in the selection of government employes. These considerations alone are sufficient justification for an honest adherence to the letter and spirit of civil service reform. There are, however, other features of this plan which abundantly commend it. Through its operation worthy merit in every station and condition of American life is recognized in the distribution of public employment, while its application tends to raise the standard of political activity from spoils hunting and unthinking party affiliation to the advocacy of party principles by reason and argument.

The American people are generous and grateful and they have impressed these characteristics upon their government. Therefore all patriotic and just citizens must commend liberal consideration for our worthy veteran soldiers and for the families of those who have died. No complaint should be made of the amount of public money paid to those actually disabled or made dependent by reason of army service. But our pension roll should be a roll of honor, uncontaminated by ill desert and unvitiated by demagogic use. This is due to those whose worthy names adorn the roll and to all our people who delight to honor the brave and the true. It is also due that those in years to come should hear reverently and lovingly the story of American patriotism and fortitude illustrated by our pension roll. The preferences accorded to veteran soldiers in public employment should be secured to them honestly and without evasion and when capable and worthy, their claim to the helpful regard and gratitude of their countrymen should be ungrudgingly acknowledged.

He then speaks of free education, the Nicaragua canal, the world's fair and continues:

The assurance of the people of the utmost individual liberty consistent with peace and good order is a cardinal principle of our government. This gives no sanction to vexatious sumptuary laws which are necessarily such habits and customs of our people as are not offensive to a just moral sense and are not inconsistent with good citizenship and the public welfare. The same principle requires that the line between the subjects which are properly within governmental control and those which are more fittingly left to parental regulation should be carefully kept in view. An enforced education, wisely deemed a proper preparation for citizenship, should not involve impairment of wholesome parental authority, nor do violence to the household conscience.

Our people, still cherishing the feeling of human fellowship, which belongs to us as a nation, require their government to express for them their sympathy with all those who are oppressed under any rule less free than ours. A generous hospitality, which is one of the most prominent of our characteristics, prompts us to welcome the worthy and industrious of all lands to homes and citizenship among us. This hospitable sentiment is not violated; however, by careful and reasonable regulations for the protection of the public health, nor does it justify the reception of immigrants who have no appreciation of our institutions, and whose presence among us is a menace to peace and good order.

In ample form and complete manner I have thus endeavored to state some of the things which accord with the creed and intentions of the party to which I have given my life-long allegiance. My attempt has not been to instruct my countrymen or my party, but to remind both that democratic doctrine lies near the principles of our government and tends to promote the people's good. I am willing to be accused of addressing my countrymen upon trite topics and in homely fashion for I believe that important truths are found on the surface of thought and that they should be stated in direct and simple terms. Though much is left unwritten, my record as a public servant leaves no excuse for misunderstanding my belief and position on the questions which are now presented to the voters of the land for their decision. Called for the third time to represent the party of my choice in a contest for the supremacy of democratic principles my grateful appreciation of its confidence, less than ever effaces the solemn sense of my responsibility. If the action of the convention you represent shall be endorsed by the suffrages of my countrymen I will assume the duties of the great office for which I have been nominated, knowing full well its labors and perplexities and with humble reliance upon the Divine Being, infinite in power to aid and constant in a watchful care over our favored nation.

Yours very truly,
GROVER CLEVELAND.

WHO'LL HAVE BEN?

BY PETER RUDOLPH TICKEL.

Could you tell me of a country that needs an overseer?
Don't they want a Shah in Persia, or a Bashaw in Tangier?
Don't the Chinese want a brand new Joss on which to try their wiles?
Don't they want a judge of onions in the warm Burmuda Isles?

We have a man we'll furnish for a small consideration.
That is, if he can take with him a lot of his relation:
Once a lawyer in Indiana, a senator after that,
Now's he's trying to fill two places—the chair and grandpa's hat.

This man will soon be out of work, at least so fates portend;
And while I cannot furnish him the slightest recommend,
Should any country want him, these words I hate to pen,
For they turn into a "paen" as I say, "It might have Ben."

PORT RICHMOND, N. Y., Sept. 26 1892.

LIGHT COINS IN THE SCALES.

How They Are Detected by Means of Electricity.

There is not a little spice of humor in the way in which both sharpers and those whose business it is to circumvent them have recourse to electrical methods for the attaining of their ends. A large consignment of gold eagles was sent to a New York bank from California which, on examination, was found to contain twenty lightweight coins bearing the date of 1891. These were apparently new and bright, but they were rejected on being passed into the electric light-coin detector. On being examined with a lens their surfaces were found to be covered with infinitesimal pores.

About one dollar's worth of gold had been extracted from each eagle by electrolysis, which is a process now in high favor among professional coin "sweaters," of whom the American Chinaman has the reputation of being by far the most adroit and diligent. In the coin detector the coins are pushed in succession from the balance pan on to a knife edge, and according as this knife edge is at the right hand limit of its range or the left hand limit the coin, when pushed on it, tilts off to the "light" channel or the "full weight" channel, as the case may be.

The right or left position of this shifting knife edge is determined by an electric contact made by the balance beam, and thus an electro-magnet is brought into action. The coins run through the machine at the rate of about sixty per minute by the turning of a handle.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Children's Clothes.

Most young mothers make the great mistake of keeping their children too warmly dressed, especially in summer. Of course, due precaution must be taken on account of sudden changes, and a nurse should invariably carry with her a lightly knit jacket; but, as a rule, infants and young children can hardly be too lightly clad in the dog-days. One sensible mother who has a great, sturdy, crowing baby of eight or ten months, makes a practice of leaving the little fellow daily half-naked on a big hair mattress for an hour or more; and it is delightful to see how he enjoys himself. It is not generally remembered that the pores are the baby's breathing places, and that by covering them all up the impurities of the body are not properly carried off. Let the little ones have bare legs and bare arms in summer. Lamb's wool socks and a lownecked merino shirt are a sufficient protection, and by accustoming the child to the air he is made much hardier and less susceptible to changes when winter arrives.—N. Y. Tribune.

—The Gospel is a pharmacopeia which contains a remedy for every human ill. "The plaster," says Matthew Henry, "is as wide as the wound."

A Million Friends.

A friend in need is a friend indeed, and not less than one million people have found just such a friend in Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds.—If you have never used this Great Cough Medicine, one trial will convince you that it has wonderful curative powers in all diseases of Throat, Chest and Lungs. U. S. MARSHALS AT THE POLLS.

A Horde of Useless Officials Forced Upon the People.

The Republicans claim that they would not avail themselves of the provisions of the force bill in the northern states if one were enacted; that the bill which passed the billion dollar congress was of a national character, because no force bill could be constitutional unless made to apply to every state of the union, and that it was only intended to be enforced in the southern states.

But no one can be so blind as to believe that if the force bill once become a law, it would not be enforced in Indiana. Have we not an example of what the Republicans have done heretofore in this state with the law authorizing the appointment of the United States marshal and supervisors for use at the polls? Have not the Republicans availed themselves of every federal election law, even in counties where there was not a Democratic officer? What are they doing this year with the United States marshals and supervisors law?

Already twenty-five counties have applied for United States supervisors, and the Republican managers boast that the other counties will be heard from inside of two weeks. Who applied for these supervisors? The applications are on file with United States Commissioner Van Buren, of Indianapolis, and they show that they are signed by postmasters, Republican committeemen and boodlers. These men "fear" they can not have an honest election in their counties without the assistance of federal officers at the polls.

So far, applications have been made for United States supervisors for the counties of Marion, Henry, Vermillion, Union, Randolph, Floyd, Fulton, Lawrence, Brown, Warren, Kosciusko, Montgomery, Jay, Clay, Delaware, Lake, Grant, Bartholomew, Hamilton, Clark, Knox, Owen, Wells and Benton.

Is it possible that the Republican election officers require Republican United States supervisors to see that a fair count is made? Take for example the counties of Henry, Randolph, Warren, Kosciusko, Delaware, Hamilton, Benton, Lawrence, Vermillion, Union, Grant, where all the inspectors of the elections are Republicans. Counties where the election returning board is unanimously Republican. Can no honest election be held, an honest count made in those counties without the interference of United States marshals and supervisors? In the Democratic county of Brown, United States supervisors have been provided for. Is there an honest Republican in Brown who really believes that the election officers of his county are corrupt?

These supervisors are appointed ostensibly for the purpose of seeing that an honest election is held. But the real object is for the purpose of intimidating voters and to provide places for Republican politicians.

The law provides that there shall be two supervisors in each precinct when applied for by the county. One is to be a Democrat, and the other a Republican. Heretofore, the Democrats have refused to designate persons for appointment as supervisor, and Commissioner Van Buren has availed himself of the law to fill vacancies with Democrats of his own choosing, very often, alleged Democrats. And as he will do the same thing this year, it is the opinion of leading Democrats that in as much as they can not avoid representations of the board, they might as well see to it, that genuine and honest Democrats are appointed as supervisors.

The cost of this service is enormous, and when taken in the country at large, it foots into millions of dollars. These supervisors serve two days, and are allowed $5 a day when there are funds in the treasury available. There are over 3,000 election precincts in the state, which at $20 for each precinct, would make over $60,000. But this is not all the expenses connected with this service. Each supervisor is supplied with a blank book which costs the government at least fifty cents each. The expense of auditing the bills, the supervisors accounts are also large, and Mr. Van Buren, who is ex-officio supervisor, is paid a commission for appointing the supervisors. At the last election he put in a claim of $9,000 for his services, as supervisors were not asked for in all the counties of the state, as they will be in the coming election.

This is only one part of the federal law now in existence; in addition to United States supervisors, an unlimited number of the United States deputy marshals can be appointed for a precinct. And the Republicans are already selecting men to fill these places. Unlike the law providing for supervisors, the deputy marshals are not required to be divided between the two political parties. When the honest voter goes to the poll next November, in the precinct of the large cities, especially, he will have to run through the gauntlet of United States deputy marshals, in some cases thugs and professional healers selected for the purpose of intimidating the timid voter. Already the Republicans of Indianapolis have prepared a list of men to serve as deputy marshals to be used at the polls, composed largely of negro toughs, who will get $5 a day for "protecting" the ballot.

Oh, no! The Republicans would not apply the force bill in Indiana if they had a chance.

THE TIN PLATE SUPERSTITION.

Congressman Bunting Examines the President's Statistics.

President Harrison in his letter of acceptance reiterates the exploded arguments of his party in defense of the tin plate industry, so called, which has been born under the midwifery of his administration.

No one knows better than Mr. Harrison the utter hollowness of the tin plate pretense up to date, and it seems incredible that he should so far presume upon the ignorance of the people as to bring forward the antiquated subterfuge of reasoning so often exploded in defense of the infant.

"Once or twice," says Mr. Harrison, "in our history the production of tin plates had been attempted, and the price obtained by the Welsh makers would have enabled our makers to produce it at a profit. But the Welsh makers at once cut prices to a point that drove the American beginners out of business, and when this was accomplished again made their own prices." Mr. Harrison is inexcusable in thus revamping this logic of Cronemeyer after it had been so thoroughly disproved in congressional debates and had come to be so thoroughly discredited by the people.

The history of the price of imported tin plates for the past twenty-five years has been gauged strictly by the world's market price of iron and pig tin, which ingredients constitute the entire bulk of tin plates and 90 per cent. of their cost. Market reports show that in 1872 pig tin was quoted at £150 per ton. They dropped to £52 in 1878. Philadelphia pig iron in 1872 was $53 per ton, and dropped to $16.50 per ton in 1878. The corresponding prices of tin plates were 26s. per box in 1872 and 12s. 1 1-2d. in 1878, a less per centage decline than noted in the case of either iron or pigtin.

Yet this is the very period when, as the parties of high bounties assert, the Welsh makers put down the price of their plates in order to run American makers out. In a business sense the Welsh manufacturers were making better profits in selling at 12s. 1 1-2d. in 1878 than they were in selling for 26s. in 1872, owing to the difference in the price of raw material.

In 1880 there was an advance in the price of plates for the very reason of the enhanced cost of pig tin and iron. Pig iron had advanced to £41 in February, 1880, while pig tin had advanced to £105 per ton. This increase in the raw material sent up the price of tin plates about 3s.

Since 1880 the price of tin plates has gradually declined, until the increased duty was assured in July, 1890, when there was an advance of nearly $1 a box, caused by the rush of American buyers. If it was the policy of the Welsh makers to put down prices whenever there was an attempt on the part of Americans to start the business, why did they not lower the price during the first six months of 1891, when, if newspaper reports could be believed, tin plate mills were starting up by the hundreds? Yet it was during this very period, owing to a speculative demand for plates, that the price was run up over $1 per box.

If Mr. Harrison were a plain business man, would he pretend that the fluctuations in tin plates for the two periods mentioned above, and to which he refers in his letter of acceptance, were not the direct result of fluctuations in the raw material of which they were made?

It lacks only a few days of two years since the McKinley law was enacted. The reports quoted by Mr. Harrison show that 13,646,719 pounds of tin and terne plates have been produced. Of this amount 9,107,129 pounds were simply roofing iron with a mixture of lead and tin in the coating. During this time the American consumption of tin plates, according to the returns of the government, were something over 1,300,000,000.

So it appears that an industry which its promoters promised would supply our whole requirements within nine months has supplied less than 1 per cent. of such requirements. Up to the 31st of March last it was shown that tin plates had been advanced to consumers, through increased price of plates and duty paid thereon, $20,730,808.30. Add to this duty paid on importation for the last quarter of the fiscal year ending 1892, over $1,000,000, and we have a total outlay of nearly $25,000,000. The only thing to be credited against this enormous expenditure is the wages paid to imported Welshmen for tinning this 13,646,719 pounds, which at twelve cents per box, the established price, would amount to $16,376.01 less than eighty cents received to every $130 paid out.

Would Mr. Harrison, as manager of a business corporation not backed by a government bounty and organized under the expectation and assurance that the industry would be self-supporting in less than nine months, felicitate himself in realizing that after two years the industry of which he is the responsible head had cost the company $25,000,000, and that the only asset was a labor account of $16,374.01; in other words, that the concern had paid out $100 for every sixty cents received?—Congressman T. L. Bunting in The National Provisioner.

RAILWAY RUMBLINGS.

The Lake Shore Local Meets with a Little wreck—Local and Personal Matters.

Train No. 163, the north bound Lake Shore local, in charge of Conductor Hickey, broke the feeder canal bridge this morning and three cars went into the ditch. This is a draw bridge, built when canal boats were running, and was a rather frail structure. The company wanted to replace it with a more substantial one some years ago, but their right of way specified a swing bridge and they were not allowed to build another kind. The engine passed over the bridge in safety, but a flat car heavily laden with stone went through, dragging with it the tender and two cars, one loaded with lumber and the other with general merchandise. The wreck car was summoned and by noon the blockade was removed and a temporary bridge erected. The damage consists in the loss of the bridge and delay to traffic.

"I desire to bear my testimony to the value of Allcock's Porous Plasters. I have used them for pains in the back and side arising from rheumatic and other causes never without deriving benefit from their application. They are easily applied and very comforting. IDEAS ABOUT GHOSTS.

Sir Walter Scott's Ghostly Library—A Class of Familiar Disturbances.

A man may think he knows a great deal about ghosts, and yet may blunder in the most elementary matters. If ever there was a man whom we could have accepted as authority on the ghostly, it was Sir Walter Scott. His library contained as many books of magic as the people of Ephesus burned, to the great regret of bibliophiles. Among other books he possessed "Of Ghosts and of Spirites and of Strange Noyses, Crackes," and so forth, by Louis Lavaterus, translated by R. H. (London, 1596). Yet, when he heard the nocturnal disturbances at Abbotsford, he forgot his lore, and gave "a singular solution" of the problem. The passage is in a letter to Terry, the actor, and was written at Selkirk, April 30, 1818. Scott was furnishing Abbotsford.

His agent in these matters, Mr. Bullock, was in London. On April 28 Scott was "awakened by a violent noise, like drawing heavy boards along the new part of the house. This was about 2 in the morning. Last night (the 29th), at the same witching hour, the very same noise occurred. Mrs. Scott, as you know, is rather timbersome, so up got I, with Beardie's broadsword under my arm—

So bold upright
And ready to fight.

But nothing was out of order, neither can I discover what caused the disturbance."

Now, Bullock had died in London, and, as nearly as they could ascertain, at the very hour when Scott was roused from his sleep by the "mysterious disturbance." Scott wrote to Terry (May 16): "Were you not struck with the fantastical coincidence of our nocturnal disturbance at Abbotsford and the melancholy event that happened? I protest to you, the noise resembled half a dozen men hard at work putting up boards and furniture; and nothing can be more certain that there was nobody on the premises at the time." Lockhart adds that the coincidence made a much stronger impression on Scott's mind than might be gathered from the tone of his letters to Terry.

All this proves a lacuna in Sir Walter's remarkable knowledge of ghosts and their ways. The coincidence was not so remarkable. Bullock only died once, but the disturbances occurred on two nights. Now, the point is, and Scott should have known it, that such "Noyses and Crackes" are not only usual, but even desirable in houses while they are being built and furnished. Nobody's memory is always ready at hand, and Scott, no doubt, forgot what Lavaterus remarks on this branch of the subject. Says he: "When houses are in building the neighbors many times hear the carpenters therein, and other artificers handling all things in such sort as if they were busily laboring in the daytime." This exactly describes what Sir Walter heard—a noise of half a dozen men at work in an uncompleted house. There was no reason to connect the circumstance with Bullock's death; with that event a phenomenon perfectly ordinary and recognized chanced to coincide. Lavaterus goes on, "And this strange wonder is joyfully received as a strong token of good luck."

Alas! it brought no luck to Abbottsford. But Lavaterus' statement proves that this class of disturbances is familiar and that the hypothesis of coincidence with a death is superfluous, and probably erroneous. The whole passage shows that a man may know a great deal about ghostly practice and precedent, yet may miss an obvious and essential fact.

In a house, a modern house, known to me, says a writer in the London News, many unexplained noises and other phenomena followed the introduction of certain objects of pagan religion—objects whose history is hideously sanguinary. Among these phenomena were snatchings and twitchings at the bedclothes of the inmates. This is a very usual sprightliness of ghosts, but why do they do it? Suetonius mentions it somewhere, but I cannot lay my hands on the reference. Lavaterus also speaks of it as normal and usual. He explains it as the work of devils, but this is a hasty theory. Can any one say why ghosts in all ages play the same tricks? The conversation of ghosts, even in the most trivial matters, is a theme which haunts me, but it could only be handled in a treatise, not in a short article. We should not canvass ghosts, but they can hardly resent our historical curiosity and literary research.

Wealth in a Handbag.

The Empress Eugenie has a passion for pearls, and was, in the days of her power, the possessor of a necklace whose largest stones were the size of a pigeon's egg. After the Franco-German war the empress sold the pearls to Mme. de Paena for 300,000 francs, which Mme. Le Breton brought to London in a little handbag. Another famous collection of pearls was that which Mlle. Thiers accumulated in three years' search for perfect specimens. These were bequeathed to her sister, Mlle. Dosne, and are valued at 400,000 francs.

A LEMON EATER.

He Consumes Nine Hundred and Thirty Lemons in Sixty Days.

Ate 930 lemons in sixty days. This is the accomplishment of a resident of the West end, who is now lying flat on his back as a result, says the Cincinnati Enquirer.

The feat was done by George Underzagt, who lives on Liberty street. A short time ago he contracted a bad case of rheumatism. He went to a number of doctors and asked their aid in pulling him through his bothersome ailment. He was prescribed for many times, but all the drugs he could conveniently pile into himself seemed to effect no change in his condition.

He was advised by friends to try various treatments unknown to the doctors but which accomplished some wonderful cures. For a long time Underzagt carried two raw potatoes in either pants pocket, but found his disease only getting worse. Warm baths were also recommended to him and he took them continuously until somebody informed him he had been seriously mistaken, and that cold baths were quite the thing for rheumatism. So the victim took cold baths, which in a short time almost caused ossification; so he stopped this so-called remedy.

After having tried a number of like treatments upon the recommendation of people who claimed to be his friends Unverzagt was told one day that lemons, taken properly, would effect a positive and permanent cure of his sickness. His informant said he was no doctor, and would not be one if he could, but that he knew a thing or two about such matters. His manner was so convincing that his victim determined to give his advice a little practice. He must eat a lemon the first day, and increase the dose one each day for thirty days. On the thirtieth day he should eat thirty lemons, and from then on he was to go backward, decreasing the dose in the same manner as he had advanced until another thirty days were up, when he would be a cured man.

Unverzagt had always heard that lemons were good for rheumatism, and this fact made him place more than ordinary faith in the new prescription. He commenced the treatment about seventy days ago, and, strange to say, carried it out to the very letter. He ate 930 lemons in that time, and now the wonder is that he is living. He is being treated by the doctors for a poisonous condition brought about by the reception of such an extraordinary amount of acid into his system.

The case has excited a great deal of interest, and Unverzagt, who right along made known to his neighbors the means he was using to cure himself of rheumatism, is called "the lemon eater." Certainly he beats all records in this direction, and his associates look upon him with a sort of awe when they contemplate the power of a system capable of counteracting the effect of so much acidity.

A WONDER IN FIGURES.

Some Strange Things That Are Found in Mathematics.

Some person of a mathematical turn of mind has discovered that the multiplication of 987654321 (which you will observe are simply the figures 1 to 9 inclusive, reversed) by 45 gives 44,444,444,445. Reversing the order of the digits and multiplying 123456789 by 45 we get a result equally as curious, viz., 5,555,555,505. If we take 123456789 as the multiplicand and interchanging the figures in 45 so as to make them read 54, use the last numbers as the multiplier and the result will be 6,666,666,606. Returning to the multiplicand 987654321 and taking 54 as the multiplier again, the result will be 53,333,333,334—all 3s except the first and last figures, which together read 54—the multiplier. Taking the same multiplicand and 27, the half of 54, as the multiplier, the product is 26,666,666,667, all 6s except the first and last figures, which together read as 27—the multiplier. Now interchanging the order of the figures 27, and using 72 instead as a multiplier and 987654321 as the multiplicand we get as a product 71,111,111,112, all 1s except the first and last figures, which together read 72, the multiplier.

Mathematicians and others who delight to wade around in the realms of the curious are well aware of the fact that there are many wonders to be met with on every hand, but it is doubtful if there is a better illustration of the trite saying: "Figures will work wonders," than that given above.

Phantoms.

The hopes of cure held out in the advertisements of numberless remedies are more phantoms, without the slightest shadow of reality about them. On the other hand, no statement has ever been made in behalf of Hostetter's stomach Bitters that is not susceptible of ample substantiation. Care has ever been taken in laying its claims before the public to circumscribe those claims with the bounds of truth. Allegations outside of these form no blot on the record of this sterling, time-honored remedy, proven by the most respectable evidence to be a remedy for the preventive of malarial disease, rheumatism, kidney trouble, chronic indigestion and biliousness. It is an infallibly fine tonic, promotes convalescence and mitigates the infirmities of age. Taken before retiring at night it is a promoter of sleep.

The young ladies in the party were the Misses Hattie and Clara Wilson, Ella and Carrie Kuntz and Roma Long.

"A Railroad Ticket" will be the attraction at the Temple this evening. This is one of the most amusing plays on the road and the fun loving portion of our citizens should be out en mass. Last Saturday a party of ladies bent wholly on pleasure and recreation drove to the Devil's Gulch, a locality noted for its fine natural scenery, about eleven miles from this city on the Huntington road. After a jaunt among the rocks and trees, they partook of lunch, which suffered terribly. Five chickens and other appetizing viands in equal proportions disappeared as if by magic. He was an upright, industrious young man and highly esteemed by all who knew him. He leaves a young wife and infant daughter, a loving father and mother and three sisters to mourn his sudden departure from earth. He was a good husband and father, a loving son, kind brother and had many friends. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Fred, in Spencerville, to a large concourse of friends. The pall bearers were David Vanzile, Frank Vanzile, Torance Hursh, Gilbert McNalb, Frank Shambaugh and Frank Henderson, the members of the Urbana band, of which Mr. Moudy belonged."
